Birth chart analysis

Astrology is a study of the quality of time. Horoscope means hour view, which clearly symbolizes the importance of the time factor. According to astrology, everything on earth is defined by space and time. Around 1900, scientists recognized that the three spatial dimensions were not enough to explain certain natural phenomena. A fourth dimension was introduced: time. Astrology attempts to express something four-dimensional, the quality of time, in our three-dimensional conceptual language.

It can therefore not describe any specific events or situations. This is always the result of the interpretation of the astrologer, who lets his own world react with the astrological world of symbols. The freer a person is from behavioral constraints, the less it will be possible to make concrete statements about his future. On the other hand, you can talk to him in pictures and symbols about the quality of time that is current for him and this e.g. B. compare with previous similar qualities.

If the person shows the same behavioral compulsions again, they confirm an astrology that is misunderstood today, but at the same time make it clear that they have learned nothing and may become dependent on the stars (superstition).

Contemporary astrology transforms, makes you aware and thus stimulates personal responsibility. It is the teaching of the archetypal basic principles and also demands learning to see the content and meanings that are attached to the forms, but which exist beyond the forms themselves. Astrology shows how the realities - Plato calls them the ideas, Jung the archetypes - are expressed in the forms. Form becomes an expression and thus the world becomes a parable (esotericism).

In order to find the way from form to content, we have to interpret. Interpretation requires a different way of seeing and thinking that follows the law of analogy (correspondence): vertical thinking. Scientific thinking is linear-causal and moves only within defined levels or layers of formal reality. Therefore one can speak here of horizontal thinking.

Both ways of thinking are polar opposites, complement each other to form the cross and together make reality comprehensible and meaningful.

Ultimately, astrology is not about the stars, but about the people who live on earth, about their embeddedness in cosmic connections. The 30-degree sections of the wheel of the zodiac are not related to the distant constellations, but to the path of the Sun. The sign of the zodiac Aries has nothing to do with the constellation of the same name. Aries refers to the space that the Sun appears to traverse after passing the vernal equinox each year. The earth must be understood as a large living body, the zodiac as a projection of human feeling and thinking for millennia (aura of the earth, etheric body, magnetic field).

Man can continue to project, ie superstition, or withdraw the projection, ie take responsibility. Of course, the existence of projections can also be denied in principle. Man, not the stars, forges his fate, fortune and misfortune in the course of his long involvement and necessary development in collective and individual evolution.

Recognize yourself and you will learn to understand your destiny as perpetrator and victim at the same time. Astrology can be an aid, nothing more. Astrology cannot describe the true, God-given essence.

It is beyond the limitations of time and space. But it claims to name inclinations, tendencies, aptitudes, areas of life, fixations, tasks, burdens.

Sow a thought and you will reap an action.

Sow an act and you will reap habit.

Sow a habit and you will reap a character.

Sow a character and you will reap a destiny.

The deterministic, event-oriented astrology with the danger of dependency. It can also be called the astrology of the body. She accepts people, their destiny and their horoscope as given, just as it is. This results in a deterministic destiny, man becomes predictable.

Psychological astrology: It assumes that everything that we constellatively carry within us, but to which we cannot say yes, will confront us in the form of fellow human beings or as external situations. It can also be called the astrology of the soul. She sees people and their horoscope as a possibility, as the potential of the systems that are to be realized. Man has to grow into his horoscope, he has to realize his talents and possibilities in order to become what he is. Only then can he help shape his destiny.

The philosophical, spiritual or esoteric astrology: It is based on the idea of an evolution which is not limited to this life. She puts her main emphasis on the inner shadows, those that we would prefer not to acknowledge but cannot avoid. Here there is close contact with the idea of reincarnation. They can also be called the astrologers of the spirit. She liberates from the horoscope, that is her purpose. After man has grown into his horoscope and thus his possibilities, has filled them with life, he has to leave them again.

In this sense, liberation from the horoscope is the meaning of astrology. The degree of freedom gained is the degree of free shaping of fate. Consequently, esoteric astrology is also a means of cosmic midwifery: Solve et coagula! (Untie and bind!)

In this context, it is now also understandable why it is completely pointless to evaluate the interpretation texts for one's own horoscope to see whether they correspond to one's own personality - according to the motto "After all, I know myself best". Whoever claims this is usually not wise, but foolish: the goal of all human striving, self-knowledge, can always only be strived for, but never fully achieved.

And astrology, the traditional path of initiation of the Europeans, can only give suggestions via the horoscope, inspire the searching person. It is less suitable as a guessing game or for vain self-reflection...

Polarities, elements and qualities

Character and essence structure

The signs of the zodiac are divided into active and passive signs, starting with Aries (active) via Taurus (passive) etc. Another classification is that of the classic elements fire, earth, air and water, also starting with Aries, via Taurus, Gemini, Cancer, etc. Furthermore, the qualities cardinal (initiative), fixed (constant) and variable (adapting) divide the zodiac, starting with Aries, continuing through Taurus and Gemini etc. This results in fundamental interpretations, for example about the temperament of the horoscope owner.

Male and female characters evenly distributed

Yin and Yang, active and passive are balanced. You can react diplomatically to people and at the same time take the initiative yourself.

Earth and water signs highlighted

It's better to wait, to swing along, to participate than to take the initiative yourself.

Introversion = turned inward. Awareness setting that favors one's own world of experience. Introverted. Shyness and aversion to the changing environment with its hustle and bustle. schizoid.

If normal, characterized by a hesitant, reflective, reserved and withdrawn personality that doesn't show itself immediately, shys away from objects, is always somewhat on the defensive and likes to hide behind suspicious observations.

Is outgoing, good-natured, natural, meaningful, practical, humorous, communicative and has greater emotional excitability, but this tends to cause the mood to quickly shift to the opposite of being exuberant, cheerful and then depressed again. Is realistic, sees the world as it is, has an objective perspective. But this realism is not enough. The counterweight in the mystical, mysterious is sought. On the other hand, one can draw one's own advantages from the facts in a quite subjective way of thinking, mostly unconsciously.

Fire and Air signs highlighted

It is easier to take the initiative than to wait, to adapt, to resonate.

Extraverted = turned outwards. Mental basic attitude of man towards his environment. cycloid.

An accommodating personality who easily finds his way into any given situation, also forging relationships, and often venturing into unfamiliar situations in a carefree and trusting manner, putting aside any possible misgivings. Takes action in life, is tough, energetic and inflexible. Likes to show off a master's nature and can be idealistic, fanatical, despotic and on the other hand also a diplomatically flexible calculator.

Sees everything but the harsh reality. From the subjective point of view, the world is colorful, a diverse abundance of facts, the core of which is not known, but wants to be recognized through factual thinking.

There is no art without subjective observation, and no science without objective observation.
