At Escort

The astrology practiced in the western world today originated in the 1970s and 1980s, echoing the hippie era. It was a time of protests against traditional, dusty and rigid ways of thinking. Alternatives were in demand - and still are today.

But in that era of flow power, job machines were booming and economic growth was continuous. Back then it was much easier to get out of middle-class life and then finance an alternative of whatever kind through occasional, lucrative jobs. That has changed. At the latest with the harsh consequences of worldwide globalization, the question no longer arises as to whether to get out of the system, but how to stay in it or even get in.

The following texts are intended to bridge the gap between blue-eyed hippie astrology and ice-cold corporate astrology. They are aimed at job seekers, part-time and full-time employees and freelancers. No closed, spiritual worldview is conveyed here. Because the business world is not like that. This astrological career prognosis is as contradictory as life itself. Taboo topics are addressed, unfair methods are recommended. It may not be particularly noble to use your elbows. But it helps with surviving in the shark tank of the professional world.

May this astrological career prognosis, a thorough revision of my version published in 2001 as a software interpretation program, help you to come to terms with reality better. Welcome to the here and now on planet earth!

Sometimes we have the opportunity to optimize an appointment, move it forward or backward. Especially in professional life, it can be extremely helpful to use the current star constellations for your career.

For example, the astrology-believing film actor Ronald Reagan is said to have scheduled his official swearing-in ceremony for a time just after midnight when he won the election as governor of California. Later, as American President, he commissioned his astrologer Joan Quigley. She had to study the running constellations with great meticulousness. First lady Nancy Reagan then marked the appointment calendar accordingly with green, yellow and red colors. Among other things, the important dates for American-Russian disarmament negotiations with USSR President Mikhail Gorbachev were selected astrologically.

Today, horoscope readings are accessible to all people. The computer does the calculation for us. We can choose good times, see opportunities in seemingly bad times, and act wisely. With a little self-knowledge and self-responsibility we will find the right way.

Astrology and concrete events

Astrological prognosis describes very precisely the current learning and development tasks for a person. In practice, i.e. exoteric, we then act, experience encounters with people, feel deep emotions, experience happiness and suffering. We live life. However, how the events look in concrete terms depends on two factors: on the one hand on the basic constellations of the birth chart (radix) and on the other hand on the constantly ongoing orbits of the planets (transits, progressions, directions, tertiary, solar).

Our personality traits, which are associated with each planetary and house of the horoscope, are constantly evolving. From the point of view of astrology, man is not a static being, but an energetic entity, constantly evolving in space and time.

The planets and axes of the horoscope symbolize the personality with all its strengths and weaknesses. Your own dispositions of character shape your destiny. At the same time, the soul develops further in the friction with fate.

Here are a few keywords for practical interpretation: The sun provides information about personal development potential. The moon represents moods and moods. Communication is assigned to Mercury. Venus says something about professional relationships and the working atmosphere in the professional horoscope. Mars symbolizes energy and assertiveness. Opportunities for growth and motivation belong to Jupiter. Saturn's realm is that of structure, inhibition, focus, responsibility, and consistency.

At the position of Uranus, the astrologer reads sudden changes, autonomy and independence. Neptune represents secret strengths and sensitivity. With Pluto the question of power arises. Personal appearance and relationship behavior can be read from the Ascendant. Medium Coeli provides information about social position, career, offices and honors.

The astrological professional prognosis interprets the temporal triggers, the events and sensations in relation to the birth chart. At the same time, a thorough study of the natal interpretations is recommended - and above all personal advice from a professional astrologer. Prognosis only makes sense if it can help people to better understand and develop their inner abilities more harmoniously: know what you want to become, then you will become what you are!

Planetary aspects in the forecast

The right timing for your career

This interpretation book bundles the angular connections between a star moving in the sky (transit) and celestial positions that were current at the time of the birth of the horoscope owner (radix) into three groups: neutral, harmony and tension.

The neutral conjunction (zero degrees) of a transitor over a natal position always intensifies the character traits. In professional life, one is forced to make a statement at these times, one feels certain abilities, strengths and weaknesses all too clearly. In principle, the conjunction is always a good aspect, a strong and powerful one that teases the best qualities out of you. Often one is not really aware of one's own actions at this time. You act spontaneously, without thinking, totally from the gut. This is an exceptional situation for colleagues, management, customers and work. In short: you have a lot of energy. And that can be used positively or negatively for your own career and job. It is important that you act wisely and consciously. And this is often not possible with the conjunction. A look at the astrological forecast can show how to survive these powerful phases without causing too much mischief.

The square aspect t (90 degrees) and the opposition p (180 degrees) are considered difficult, as are the sub-aspects semi-square (45 degrees) and sesqui-square (135 degrees), albeit in a much weaker form. Confinis (30 degrees) and quincunx (150 degrees) should also be included. They always bring you into slightly paradoxical life situations.

The opposition is an encounter aspect. You encounter resistance and get into competitive situations. Opinion collides with opinion. The force of this friction is explosive. It's easy to argue. However, if used wisely, this aspect is excellent for making contact. You can use it in marketing, in customer acquisition or in aggressive job applications. The opposition of gentle planets like Venus, Mercury or Jupiter is particularly recommended.

However, only masters of diplomacy and absolute achievers will implement a tension of the square aspect in a meaningful way. Anyone who absolutely wants to push through a difficult matter, is a workhorse and doesn't even shy away from great effort will develop resistance and very special stamina under the transit square of Saturn, for example. In general, one is at odds with oneself under such a planetary aspect.

Square and opposition transits is exhausting. Times like this demand top performance. Stress is inevitable. When timing your career, you should therefore ensure that there are also harmonious planetary aspects at the same time. In this way the tension between the square and the opposition can be alleviated.

Sextile (060 degrees) and trine u (120 degrees), these are harmonious aspects, so they are opportunities that can be used. And that's exactly where the problem lies: The trine in particular can be experienced as a quiet time in which nothing special actually happens. The job runs without you having to worry too much about it. Convenience sets in all too quickly. You get used to a stress-free working life and forget to train yourself and force yourself to perform better.

The trine is often experienced in the form of tolerant superiors. Offers will be made without obligation. Happiness does not impose itself. And it works again after a while if you don't grab it. How positive the time of a trine or sextile (which seems a little weaker) was, you often only notice afterwards. But then it's too late.

The hard tension aspects square and opposition have a particularly positive effect on the phlegmatic characters, stimulating them. A Taurus, Cancer or Pisces needs the tension to come out of the reserve.

The soft aspects of the sextile and trine work best with people who are active, dynamic, and argumentative. Scorpio, Aquarius and Aries are mostly energized. It's good for you to relax a little.

Especially the Scorpio, obsessed with a fixed idea that he wants to sell no matter what, will be happy about a trine. At last he can spin his web uninhibitedly and realize long-cherished concepts. Achievers need the tolerance of harmonious aspects.

In addition to the planetary aspects, the movement of the moving planets through the individual segments of the natal chart should also be pointed out. These transits through natal houses always actualize a very specific area of life. There is no division into good or bad.

Mars transits, for example, always bring a violent burst of energy with them. Arguments can be the result, for example arguments with superiors (10th house), the payroll clerk (2nd house) or with subordinates (6th house). If you use it positively, you can fight for a higher position on the career ladder (10th house), make a lot of money (2nd house) or improve your own work situation (6th house).

So there is no good or bad in the transits through the houses, only a how. The following texts will give you a variety of tips on how to do the right thing at the right time for your professional advancement.

»The weather is never really wrong. You're just sometimes dressed wrong.« This saying also applies to stellar climate conditions. There really aren't really any good days or bad days. Each planetary constellation has its special qualities. Every era has its own chances. You just have to recognize them. That's actually quite astrological, isn't it?

Cycles of the Sun

Personal development potential

The course of the sun in the forecast illuminates the respective areas of our birth chart. In contrast to all other planets and lights, a transit of our central star almost always leads to a concrete event. If you imagine life as a theatrical stage, then the sun is the spotlight, the brightly blazing spotlight that directs the audience's gaze to the actors.

The average transit time of the sun through a natal house is 30 days. During this period, our potential for personal development is greatest in the area of life that corresponds to this part of our birth chart. Sun transits through specific positions of the lights, planets and axes of the chart are very brief and violent. You can estimate a period of validity of two to three days. Special facets of our character are energetically refueled.

For example, if the moving sun comes over the middle of the sky (Medium Coeli) of the birth chart, you will have to deal more with superiors and officials. At the same time, success beckons in all activities that put one's own person in the spotlight of public recognition. Sun transits (and especially the conjunctions among them) bring our personality parts very visibly onto the stage of life. Suddenly we experience people of whom we say to ourselves "There it is actually you".

In general, the sun transits give self-confidence. If we are looking for favorable days for projects that require our personal presence, then we should trust in the favor of the sun.

Sun ^{tr} House I.

use elbows

A few weeks now the sun is going through your first horoscope house. You are impressive in personal appearance, self-centered, with strong physical vitality, impatient in action and argumentative. Use this time to assert your own personal interests. They have a lot of courage and give off a brilliant appearance.

Sun ^{tr} House II.

To ensure

When the sun goes through the 2nd house, you want to reset your money. In all material matters you are extremely creative. You create security, first of all for yourself, but also for your company. At no other time of the year can you conduct wage negotiations and financial transactions so successfully.

Sun ^{tr} House III.

to make contacts

With the Sun in the 3rd house, you will be able to break isolation. You are no longer solely dependent on the people you have known so far. You build new contacts with self-confidence. Short business trips. correspondence. Haggling. discount benefits. Trading and Market Observation Benefits.

Sun ^{tr} House IV.

become at home

Sun transit through the 4th house is great for buying and trading real estate. You could also work as a location scout during this time, ie scout out cool places for film shooting or special festivities. Anyone who has just started in a company should now become more familiar with the corporate identity, with the company identity and the collective self-image of the employees.

Sun ^{tr} House V.

Show everything

With the sun's transit through the fifth house, the desire to work independently and on one's own responsibility increases for a few weeks. They are also not afraid of the public at all. Sign up for sales events, visiting trade fairs or speaking before the general meeting of shareholders. You have enough audience there.

Sun ^{tr} House VI.

When the Sun passes through the 6th house, you don't mind going into a position of service or taking on commissioned work. Especially in special areas you can show how qualified you really are.

By the way, this time is also very well suited for the internal audit. You'll find out pretty quickly how to optimize operational processes. Talk to the people. Take your complaints seriously. This also applies to troubleshooting in production, for example debugging computer software programming.

With the transiting Sun in the 7th house, you are generally interested in other people. One is self-confident in contact with the you, in partnerships, rubs oneself up against open enemies, for example the competition or competitors for a lucrative post, but now also has the talent to convert opponents into friends and competitors into comrades-in-arms. In court cases, in this sunny phase, a settlement often succeeds, an amicable settlement without a judge's decision.

Sun ^{tr} House VIII.

The Sun's transit through the 8th house means that the real financial circumstances of partners and clients are seen in a much brighter, perhaps even harsher, light. This is not always nice at first glance.

Stronger self-confidence and, above all, a lot of curiosity helps to keep contact with the dark, manipulation, hidden bankruptcies, but also hidden accounts and retained profits bearable. It's like standing in a bank vault and being able to look inside private lockers with x-ray goggles.

Sun ^{tr} House IX.

To travel far

It's only been a few weeks that the sun transits the ninth house of the horoscope. But they will do you good. You exude optimism. You are welcome to accept discounts. And they would like to break up their tents overnight. All of this can be reconciled with professional life. Take educational leave. Go to a training convention.

Have yourself transferred to the overseas branch at short notice. Hire on a ship or an amusement park as an entertainer. Goals set too high? Find something that broadens your horizons. Already an idea? There you go!

earn recognition

When the Sun passes through the 10th house, you appear much more confident in public places. They now need to work in hierarchies, are status-oriented, and even caste thinking. All this serves to advance professionally, to gain power and influence.

You really want to know now. Certain people will inevitably feel pressured into their comfortable posts. You have to reckon with hostilities and resistance. Well, you have to go through with it.

show solidarity

The Sun's transit through the 11th house makes you confident in the company of like-minded people. Strong contact with people who are on your wave helps immensely. However, you might also experience disappointments. No one will accept you as their boss right now. Join a team. Your social skills are in demand. Hierarchies are now completely unimportant, only disturbing.

Sun [♁] House XII.

With the transit of the Sun through the 12th house there is a voluntary or involuntary withdrawal. You rub shoulders with hidden enemies or external circumstances that are not so easy to change. Use this time to work in the background. This temporary isolation helps you to look at things from a distance and make new plans. A good opportunity to prepare new projects. Explore the terrain. Analyze the market. Stay covered on the outside.

Sun [♁] Sun [♂]

Holiday

Happy Birthday! This is a day to celebrate. Start a big party and invite all friends. The champagne should flow freely. The music can't be loud enough. They get on the table and dance like never before. Good this way. But does it all have to start at nine in the morning at the company?

If you're the sole proprietor and can afford to compromise the respect of your employees and customers, raise your glasses.

As an employee, on the other hand, it is better for you to show off with a deliberately discreet behavior. A quick thank you for the congratulations from the staff. And then it's back to day-to-day business. A little drink after work. Not more. The boss will be very impressed by your reserved and disciplined manner. And he doesn't realize that you are secretly enjoying this show of modesty. You can still get rid of him. But only when you are finally an authorized signatory and have taken over the management of this juice shop. The day will come!

self-blindness

The transiting Sun in tension with its natal position should give you food for thought. Where are you self-blind? Do self-image and external image really match? Don't fall into the ego trap! You're just getting in your own way.

Take yourself back for a day. Distrust anyone who flatters you now. Instead of vanity, you should focus on cordiality. Then your authority in the company will soon be restored.

Sun [♄] Sun ✕ Δ

creative power

Harmonious transits of the sun to its starting position strengthen the ego. Her charisma is very good. People want to experience more of your personality. You have leadership qualities.

A good day for all activities that are fun and require independent decisions. With the power of two hearts, you can convince other people. Creative people and artists feel this positive quality of time particularly well.

climate change

The moon in transit over the sun is primarily about the atmosphere in the workplace and the relationship with colleagues and employees. You can influence this. If you want to change the working atmosphere, then do it! You can immediately read the result of your efforts in the faces of your fellow human beings.

You won't quite manage to create a familiar atmosphere. Your childhood experiences always play a part. Also the negative. So be flexible and, despite all your energy, be reserved. Don't impose too much familiarity on your co-workers. Otherwise you will achieve the opposite of what you actually intend.

against each other

Aspects of tension between the transiting sun and moon disrupt operational cooperation. If you ruthlessly get your way, your colleagues won't play along. Instead of getting angry about it, they should act a little more sensitively and with more consideration. Besides, you're pretty moody yourself these days.

In principle, it would be better not to be the center of attention at all today. Can you do that?

hammer and anvil

The harmonious transits from sun to moon are extremely favorable for all activities that you take into your own hands. The people around you don't work against you, they work for you. If you set the impulses like a hammer, you create clarity. And then there are the others, who act as an anvil, don't make any squirming, but take the position assigned to them.

The distribution of roles is correct. You are able to give clear and unambiguous instructions. That's what they ask of you. And you can do that too. Definitely today.

Sun [♄] Mercury ♂

You are extremely good at communicating with the transiting Sun over Mercury. You don't hide your opinion behind the mountain. When you laugh, laugh loudly and clearly. At the moment you are really very present, maybe even over-present. Out of sheer joy that her shyness has gone, you determine the course and topic of the conversation.

It's really amazing that the person you're talking to still gets a chance to speak now and then.

Use this day for difficult external contacts. There you have enough freedom and you can skillfully use your ego. As a representative of your company, you give a passable picture.

Sun ^{tr} Mercury □ ☉

The harsh solar transits to Mercury make it almost impossible to have a factual conversation. Either the other person is too slow-witted or you are too vain. If you are the head of a company, the former applies.

As an employee, you should always assume the latter - if you value your career. This solar transit is often accompanied by technical and logistical problems. This can be caused by a problematic communication structure. When the pecking order among employees alone determines who is right, there is inevitably a lack of information.

Sun ^{tr} Mercury ✕ Δ

Clear and clear

The harmonious transits from the Sun to Mercury are accompanied by a certain nonchalance. You are so self-confident that you can approach others in a completely relaxed and confident manner. You conduct the conversations factually, but always with a certain charm. It might even be really warm.

Above all, there are hardly any misunderstandings. You just put all the facts on the table. And that also includes expressing your own interests unequivocally. That doesn't scare at all. Your counterpart knows who he is letting himself in for. For this reason, this constellation is also suitable for contract negotiations.

Sun ^{tr} Venus ☿

High sympathy factor

The transit of the Sun via Venus clearly shows how you shape your relationships and how your sympathy factor is at the moment. The latter is extremely important in professional life, for example it determines purchasing decisions between comparable products, and applies to political elections when the major parties do not differ particularly in their goals.

Wherever there is an oversupply on the market, sympathy is decisive. You can consciously influence this these days and thus increase your personal chances on the job market. The downside of this situation is that you tend to be lazy at the moment.

feelings of displeasure

When the Sun transits in tension with Venus, the palette ranges from exaggerated vanity to absolute repugnance. Both are two sides of the same coin. If you buy a piece of clothing these days, you will either want to compensate for a supposed ugliness or you will unconsciously buy something that does not suit your type at all. In any case, you will put the good piece in the closet in a few days. Forever. Sooner or later it ends up in the old clothes donation.

Apply this example to your job. Of course, you can't really tell this or that person that you don't like them or their products or concerns. But you think so. Cancel meetings. Pretend some ailment. Postponed is not cancelled. Phew, got away with it again!

Sun ^{tr} Venus ✕ Δ

Pure pleasure

Sun in harmonious transit with Venus is an utterly seductive constellation. In principle, anything that promises pleasure either makes you fat or is forbidden. But you don't treat yourself to anything else. Don't be so squeamish. You can afford it. And also wants to be shown.

This constellation is ideal for all salespeople and employees in the entertainment industry, in the fashion industry, in confectionery and ice cream parlors, the erotic industry and similar institutions. Let your imagination run wild. Look sin in the eye. Stand your ground! And if you do become weak, you can always go to confession afterwards. Ah, life is beautiful!

Sun ^{tr} Mars □ ♂

hit and stab

The harsh aspects of tension from the Sun to Mars often have something to do with conflicts of authority. They're getting into somewhere where the pecking order isn't right. And that's why people work against each other. The result is pointless competitive thinking, which is highly counterproductive in a company.

You could now be advised not to respond to every provocation. But this celestial constellation cannot be controlled at all with the head.

You could only trick yourself. Fully aware. Tell yourself that you're rebuffing the other person just to annoy them. Should he boil with anger! That's what he got from it. You stay cool and confident.

Sun ^{tr} Mars ♂

lonely decision

Transit Sun over Mars always brings tricky events. Completely phlegmatic, anxious or otherwise passive minds are surprised by accidents, technical faults or aggression by third parties. But anyone who is only halfway active in their professional life will cheer loudly these days. No constellation is better suited to actively transforming the situation. So that things get better!

You no longer ask. They don't wait either. You just do something. And if it was the wrong thing, then something else will be tried. Ask management to participate in particularly difficult projects that need immediate attention and cannot be delayed. Or do they act without a third-party order.

Of course you have to take responsibility for the consequences of your actions. Later then. All of this is still better than being overwhelmed by events. Let's go!

Sun 8 Mars □ ♂

With the sun in harmonious aspect to Mars, the four musketeers gather and conquer the markets of this world, equipped with Porsche and laptop instead of horse and sword. This constellation is excellent for teamwork. She is dynamic and inspired by extraordinary sportsmanship. Competition is perceived as a stimulus. The best will win. Tough but fair.

The only problem with this constellation is the inexperience with which new projects are approached. The true extent of the problems involved is often underestimated. But if that weren't the case, would you have started at all? Courage always has a bit to do with foolishness. So what?

Sun ^{tr} Jupiter ♃

Big patrons

The transiting Sun over Jupiter clearly shows how to seek support and what to do when someone actually says yes to you. This is not an easy situation. Often enough you've seen full-bodied offers being withdrawn, dropped from one day to the next and left out in the cold. So how will you react based on your past experiences?

Everyone needs sponsors. In childhood it was often a dear aunt or an uncle who slipped something here and there. In other words, people you could always go to, to whom you could complain, and where there was never a lack of understanding. What remains is the naive belief in Santa Claus. You must now decide for yourself whether you want to continue to engage in such relationships.

One usually assumes the role of favorite towards patrons. From there it is not far to the role of the footman. But for that reason alone, should any generous person be viewed with skepticism?

Sun ^{tr} Jupiter ♃

The hard transit from the Sun to Jupiter breaks the conventional dimensions and proportions. Only extremely rarely does something substantial arise under this star. People adorn themselves with meaningless titles such as honorary consul, representative general or honorary professor. Others speak of assurances or declarations of intent by large banks or companies. What's behind it?

If you are now being urged to invest a great deal of money very quickly, if you are being asked to trust blindly and if you are talking about faith and positive thinking, then you should be right to be suspicious.

Sun ^{tr} Jupiter ♃

It will be

Harmonic transits of the sun to Jupiter are actually always lucky. You give people a chance, but don't surrender yourself completely. Ultimately, you trust your own strength and only lean out as far as your position allows. And that in itself is a lot.

This constellation is very suitable for cooperation agreements. You meet people who are pursuing similar goals. And you find a way to treat each other with trust. Live and let live. But even more: cooperation for mutual benefit. But without fatal dependencies!

Sun ^{tr} Saturn ♄

standards of value

The transit of the sun over Saturn shows you your weaknesses. And he makes it clear how you have learned to deal with it over the past few years. This is possible in two ways. On the one hand, you must continue to strive to compensate for old shortcomings and injuries of a physical or mental nature through continuous work on yourself. Through diligence and effort, you develop extraordinary abilities in this area of life.

On the other hand, you have developed skill in dealing with authorities over the years. What used to be your father and mother when you were small and helpless now comes to you in the form of rules and laws, bosses and officials, diplomas and business accounts.

Don't be a kid! Build your own independent value system. And make it the maxim of your actions. Plan your own, very personal life career, independent of external, socially prescribed norms and standards.

And despite everything, please don't become self-righteous!

Sun ^{tr} Saturn □ ☿

narrow limits

When the transiting Sun forms tension aspects with Saturn, one realizes that while the profession offers security, it is also quite restrictive. Inside it rebels violently. Externally there are conflicts of authority. Whether you take on the role of the rebel or the philistine remains to be seen. Both offer opportunities.

At the end of the day, all that matters is that you're cranky these days, not in a great mood. It just gets exhausting no matter how hard you try. That's why it's wise to postpone important appointments until a later date. Do not subject yourself to excessive stress today. This is beyond your scope.

distribution of tasks

The favorable aspects of the transiting Sun to Saturn almost always mean that diligence and realism are rewarded in one way or another. If you receive an award under this star or if you are offered a good job, then that makes perfect sense. And you deserve it too.

As the saying goes: "Modesty is an ornament, but you can get further without it." So don't hide your light under a bushel. If one or the other interesting or lucrative position is vacant at the moment, feel free to apply. Put yourself in the spotlight. How else are headhunters supposed to know you're available?

Sun ^{tr} Uranus ☿

lottery

When the Sun is over Uranus, everything has to happen very, very quickly. Or nothing happens at all and yawning boredom dominates the stage. In other words: On this day you can test whether you are suitable for the job of stockbroker.

What else? Great opportunities to finally make a fuss and throw all your stuff at the boss's feet. You will probably regret it bitterly tomorrow.

But who thinks about tomorrow? you? Well, that's amazing!

Tension aspects of the transit Sun to Uranus make everything so easy that nothing can really go wrong. And that's why most mistakes happen under this star.

You rely on the technology, occasionally write phone numbers and notes on pieces of paper that you can't find again, mix up right/left or up/down, come into contact with people who, in no time at all, organize something that doesn't work at all and only causes confusion.

You can only prevent the worst from happening if you are really wide awake now and work with double security. Humor is when you laugh anyway.

Sun ^{tr} Uranus ✕ Δ

Self-employed

Harmonious aspects between the Sun and Uranus are a blessing.

There is arguably no better time to take life easy. You live in the present, in the here and now.

If you dream of self-employment, get a little closer to that goal today.

You do without superfluous safeguards, don't show your role like that, you can laugh at yourself. The greatest strength of this day is the ability to approach other people openly and without demands.

Sun ^{tr} Neptune ♂

Dream and reality

When the sun transits over Neptune, your imagination is particularly strong.

Perhaps you will manage to salvage a bit of this in your professional life, for example through creativity. People who work in social or musical professions that require special sensitivity will particularly enjoy these days.

However, now you also feel how vulnerable you are. If you have subordinated yourself to your colleagues at work out of fear or false shame, then you will be made to feel it all too clearly. Some of the dear employees shamelessly take advantage of their open flank.

Observe the situation. Don't wallow in self-pity. Instead, resolve to make more use of your hidden strengths in the future.

sloppiness

Hard transits of the Sun to Neptune force you to take a clearer position. Ambiguous circumstances are increasingly becoming a problem. There are aspects of your job that you don't really like to deal with. The shelf stays where it is. The tool cabinet is not tidy. Bills were not paid.

You don't like talking to certain people. There is a leak somewhere that should have been fixed a long time ago. The list could be continued endlessly.

Your sloppiness could be your undoing. If you don't work a little more carefully, you're going to be doing more work today than you'd like. So clean up a bit. And go to bed early. You will have interesting dreams.

Sun ^{tr} Neptune ✕ Δ

gentle authority

Harmonious aspects of the transit Sun to Neptune make it easy for you to weave your little crazy things and idiosyncrasies into everyday professional life. They are highly imaginative. And you have an excellent feeling for the little worries and needs of your colleagues. In tacit consideration, you take the liberties and demand very specific performance. And you don't do it secretly, you do it openly.

The self-confidence with which you proceed is amazing. And because of that, you will be treated with respect. If you succeed in establishing a gentle leadership style, you will soon have completely different paths open to you.

Sun ^{tr} Pluto ♂

position of power

With the transiting Sun over Pluto, you will be drawn into the confrontation either way. Something has to change. The only question is whether the future suits your taste. If you want to have a say, you have to have a clear opinion. Subtle criticism or a defiant attitude of denial will not bring you any closer to this goal.

If today you are too fixated on a very specific person to fight out your own personal revenge campaign, then you can do so. However, you will not achieve a change for the better with this. You have to be in a position of power first. And that is only possible with constructive behavior and staying power.
